

Being a former employee of Clear Channel I am concerned about the number of stations they own/operate (8) in our small market. I believe that there are only 2 other independant radio stations in the area. While employed (2 years) I saw advertising rates rise 3 times, we live in farming communities. Also, they are striving to move a 50,000 watt station from our small community, (where it had been a source of local information for the community for over 45 years,) to a market covered by the Columbus area. The community is suffering from the doings of this corporation. The localness is gone as voice-tracking takes over.
